Public meeting slated Thursday on Bay schools building program

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The first of two public meetings on a proposed building program for the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in the school board meeting room.

The meeting was scheduled at a special school board meeting Monday to hear Superintendent Roger Oge's proposals for meeting the needs for better and expanded school facilities in the district.

Addressing the board, administrators and a group of about 10 interested parents and residents, Oge said current facilities have both strengths and weakness but there are many opportunities for improvements.

"The schools are desperately overcrowded and this is not a new situation," he said.

Oge said he was almost afraid to mention any proposals like this with all the recent talk about increased taxes and the public not being able to afford anything else.

But the public can not afford to neglect this, he said.

"There is no better way to lift up the economy than to have a better quality school system," Oge said.

Proposal I calls for expansion of Bay High School to create a complex of 1,100 students with additional growth capacity.

"Included in the new complex would be approximately 30 additional classrooms, a small branch library, a small physical education facility, an auditorium, a band hall, enlargement of cafeteria seating, office area, testing area and area for serving special children," he said.

Other major parts of the proposal call for the reconditioning and air conditioning of Bay Junior High to serve grades 4-6; reconditioning North Bay Elementary and fixing the enrollment at 400 students, grades kindergarten through three; and enlarging Waveland Elementary to accommodate 400 plus students grades K-3.

Oge said there are many advantages to this proposal in addition to the elimination of overcrowding at all schools.

A comprehensive curriculum can be planned and managed for all students, grades 7-12, he said.

"The academic programs would be improved because there would be one English department serving all grades 7-12, one math department for all," Oge stated.

This would also allow students who have the ability to finish school in less than four years to do so, he said.

"I see no reason for a capable student to have to spend four years in high school and know many students who have finished high school at ages 14 or 15," he said.

Athletic, band and fine arts programs can be greatly enhanced, Oge said.

Another improvement will be the reduction of transportation time and expense with almost one-half of the school system's students being on one site, he added.

After a brief open discussion on this proposal, unanimous support was pledged by board members and concerned citizens in the audience.

"This is the beginning of the movement," said School Board President Betty Diboll.

"We are setting public meetings to get the patrons comments and thoughts on a building program, not to ask if they want one," she said.

"We are going to have a building program," she added.

The board and Dr. Oge intends not only to provide adequate building space but better teaching programs as well, Diboll added.

According to Oge no cost estimates for the expansion and improvements are available but costs will be considerably less than that of Proposal II which calls for the construction of a new high school.

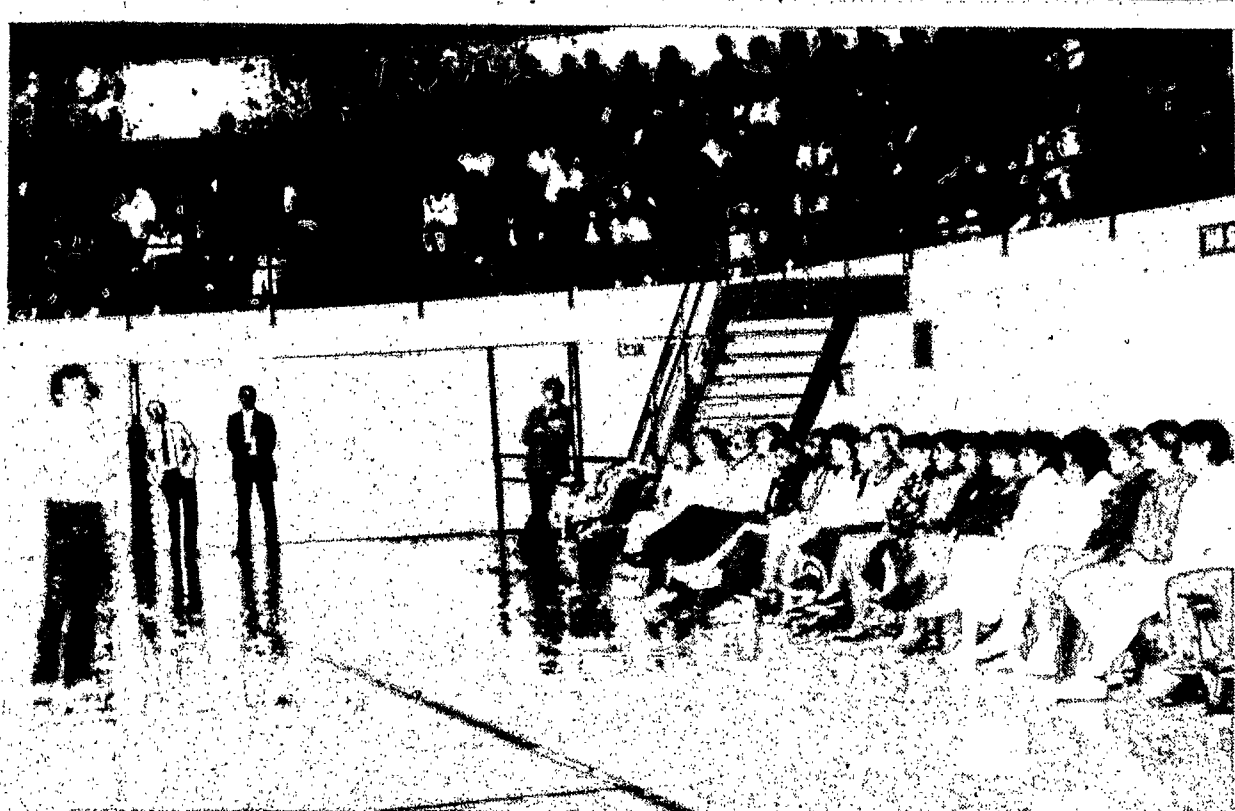

It is highly possible that this building program will be able to be implemented to meet the needs of the students without a tax increase over the present rate, he stated.

As present school district indebtedness is paid off, the current millage rate may be able to cover the costs of long term capital improvements, Oge said.

"We are very fortunate in that the combination of the most financially feasible plan is also the best program, educationally speaking, for our children," he added.

The board voted to have complete information on the project ready by March 18 to present to the board attorney to begin preparing bond documents.

The second public meeting will be next Thursday at 7 p.m. in the board room at Bay High School.

Student attention riveted on Parchman inmates

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Bay Senior High School students are expected to talk for a long time about Tuesday's Project Aware program conducted by convicted felons from the Mississippi State Penitentiary.

But during the program students sat mostly in stunned silence while the Project Aware Speaking Team talked about their lives and mistakes that led to imprisonment.

No. 56738 Susanne Spell, No. 48089 Bennie Cole, No. X55108 Monique Colvin and No. 41365 Kenzie Patterson introduced themselves and told students in graphic detail the events which led up to their penitentiary sentences which range from a few years to life.

"We give our number first because everything in our lives revolves around that number that was assigned to us when we got to the penitentiary," Team Moderator Susanne explained.

Clothes, mail and everything received is marked with that number, she added.

"We are nothing but items on the inventory, a piece of property of the state," Susanne said.

"You may think you are too young to be sent to Parchman but the youngest person ever there was 10-years-old and a 14-year-old boy is now serving 30 years for armed robbery," she said.

Eighty percent of Parchman inmates have a history of alcohol or drug abuse, Susanne said.

"And 69 percent of the crimes committed which caused people to be sent to prison were drug-related," she added.

Susanne is serving a three-year mandatory sentence for armed robbery and possession of methamphetamine.

"I used to race motorcycles," said Kenzie, "and some of the guys I used to beat are world champions."

Kenzie said he received several broken bones when he was racing and began taking drugs for pain.

"I got addicted and before long my habit cost $500 a day," he added.

Kenzie said the first time he broke into a drug store for demoral before he got out of town, he was caught.

"I went to jail at age 19 but in the 16 months there all I learned was how to break into a drugstore real good," he added.

Kenzie was out only a few months before he robbed another drug store.

"This time it went right and I didn't get caught until I sold $120,000 of drugs to an undercover narcotics agent," he said.

Kenzie went back to jail.

"When I got out this time first thing I did was get a six-pack of beer and before I knew it I was waiting in the car for a friend who had just taken a shotgun inside to rob a store," he said.

"I got the same 20-year sentence for armed robbery that my friend did," Kenzie added.

Kenzie also explained to the students about what it is like going to the penitentiary.

"When you first get there you have to take off all your clothes and be searched to make sure you are not carrying in drugs."

"They search every single place you could hide something and I mean everywhere."

"That was the most degrading and humiliating experience I have ever had and I will not ever forget it," Kenzie said.

Monique said at age 15 she started drinking wine smoking a little dope.

"When I was 17 I received a life sentence in the penitentiary for killing a girl in the school cafeteria," she said.

"At a high school dance I spilled wine on a girl named Lisa's dress. I didn't think anything about it until I

Speaker urges standard English, computer literacy

Louise Williams crowned Mother of the Year at NAACP supper theater

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Louise Williams is the Hancock County Branch National Association for the Advancement of Colored People 1987 Mother of the Year.

She was crowned Saturday at the annual supper theater by former Mother of the Year Gloria Payne.

Guest speaker for the eighth annual dinner honoring the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was James R. Figgs of Legal Services Corporation in Clarkdale.

Figgs spoke on problems facing black Americans today.

"In less than 15 years, we will witness the dawn of another century with all of the challenges and opportunities it will present," he said.

The age of the computer has arrived and by the year 2000, computer literacy will be as important to this generation as knowing the alphabet was to our generation, Figgs said.

"Our young people must be taught to compete in a world of computers and robotics. We must insist that they learn to speak and write standard English as a first language," he stated.

Figgs also said the problem of young people roaming the streets, and hanging out on street corners or in video parlors when they should be in school must also be addressed.

However, according to Figgs, one of the most difficult problems facing black people today is the problem of teenage pregnancy.

"One need not be a prophet to see that unless this phenomenon in our community is checked, regardless of the economic, cultural or social causes, that rather than breaking out of the yoke of oppression and degradation, generations unborn will be stuck in poverty, welfare, dependence, substandard housing, crime and delinquency," he said.

"Our parents, schools, churches, civic organizations, media, community groups and grass-root organizations must address this problem openly and forthrightly," Figgs stated.

This problem will not go away because it is delicate and difficult to deal with, he said.

"I want to make it clear tonight, I am not casting moral judgment on single parents but want to sound the warning that unless we act to deal with the growing dilemma, our entire race will reel...under the impact (of this situation) well into the 21st century," Figgs said.

Figgs told the group of about 150 people that black Americans have real strengths which they must utilize.

He listed the strenghts of economic power, moral standards, constructive non-violent protests and of faith.

"If we stand up, if we don't give up, if we shape up, if we struggle to keep up...victory shall be ours and America's long trek down the paths of injustice shall end," Figgs said.

Also at the supper theater, Clarence Harris of Waveland was presented a public service award and Mrs. Ada Pollard of Bay St. Louis was presented the Ethel Weaver Service award.

Entertainment was provided by Philip Williams, Mrs. Jessie Hathorn, Angellique Bell and the Voices of Gulfside.

Bay council seeks views on sales tax

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council wants to hear city residents' views on an additional one cent sales tax to reduce property taxes.

Bay residents' property taxes were recently increased to fund the city's portion of the Waveland Regional Wastewater District and necessary increases for the school district.

"Because of the possibility more revenues will be needed next year we have to decide whether to continue to fund wastewater and school district expenses with millage receipts or to reduce the millage by requesting a local and private legislative bill," Council James Thriftley said Tuesday at the council's regular meeting.

A one-cent increase in the sales tax would result in lower millage being paid by property owners.

Additional sales tax is being considered.

Mass of Christian Burial offered for Bro. Hilbert

BROTHER HILBERT

A Mass of Christian Burial was offered for Brother Hilbert, SC, in the St. Stanislaus Chapel in Bay St. Louis Wednesday at 4 p.m.

Burial was in the Cemetery of the Brothers of the Sacred Heart in Bay St. Louis.

Brother Hilbert (Louis Edward Mooney), died at Tulane Medical Center intensive care unit in New Orleans Monday, Jan. 19, 1987.

A Mobile, Ala. native, he was 69.

Son of William Mooney and Josephine Peters, both deceased, he attended McGill Institute in Mobile until 1935 when he left for Metuchen, N.J., where he attended St. Joseph's High School while preparing to become a teaching Brother of the Sacred Heart.

In 1938 he took his first vows and six years later, his perpetual vows. He taught at Brothers' schools in Oklahoma, Mississippi, and Louisiana as well as Africa where he taught for several years in Nyapea, Uganda.

He served as band moderator at St. Aloysius in New Orleans and Thibodaux College.

In the last 1960s, Brother Hilbert became interested in pottery and ceramics, serving as art teacher at St. Stanislaus until 1976. Teaching pottery to adults then became his chief occupation.

In November, 1986 Mississippi Roads, the METV program, featured a segment in which Brother Hilbert demonstrated his technique in the making of pottery. His specialty was Raku, a procedure for making pottery which was developed in Japan toward the end of the 16th century.

Stationed at St. Stanislaus since 1968, he celebrated his golden jubilee as a brother in 1985.

Hunting and fishing were favorite pastimes.

Survivors include a brother, Tom Mooney of Mobile; and sister, Mrs. Agnes McCormick.

Preceding him in death was another sister, Mona.

The "Full Nest" Syndrome

Within the next five years, more young adults will return home to live. This "returning home" is caused by delayed marriages, more divorces, a growing emphasis on advanced education, and economic factors such as high housing costs and a tight job market.

For a more harmonious financial relationship if your child chooses to remain or return home, follow these suggestions:

1. Establish ground rules. The more clearly the rules are spelled out in the beginning, the better the arrangement will work.

Parents should encourage children to accept as much responsibility as possible. Young adults should be expected to care for their own clothing, possessions, and financial obligations.

They should have their own checking and savings accounts, insurance and possibly their own phone.

2. Work out the finances. Living at home shouldn't be a free ride. Young adults who are working can be expected to contribute something to the household.

Parents who do not insist on some financial contribution from children may deprive the child of a valuable lesson in responsibility and make living at home a little too attractive.

In addition, parents may start off happily footing the bill but end up resenting it when the additional expense stresses the family budget.

3. Agree on a length of time for the living arrangement to continue.

Some children may move home during a divorce or financial crisis and stay until they have a chance to get back on their feet.

It is best, however, not to view it as a permanent arrangement. While living there, children should be working toward the goal of financial independence and establishing their own home.

PRM presents reenactment of 1787 Constitutional Convention

Listeners will be transported to 18th century Philadelphia when "Dateline 1787" broadcasts up-to-the-minute news of the framing of the Constitution, beginning at 6:30 p.m., Jan. 25, on Public Radio in Mississippi (PRM).

A production of the Peabody Award-winning National Radio Theatre, "Dateline 1787" is a series of 14 half-hours, continuing Sundays at 6:30, that brings a modern radio news team to Independence Hall to cover the "Grand Convention" that hammered out the Constitution during four grueling months.

In each episode, the five-person crew wraps-up the week's floor debate; interviews statesmen such as George Washington, Benjamin Franklin, James Madison and Alexander Hamilton; presents features on the personalities behind the events, and provides perspective and analysis.

The opening episode covers Washington's installation as Convention president. In other episodes, we see Philadelphia celebrate the 4th of July, Benjamin Franklin show a reporter around his new house, and the delegates' private lives are examined.

PRM is broadcast statewide and on the Gulf Coast from Biloxi, 90.3 FM.

Catfish farming underway in Kiln

Farming opportunity conference scheduled today at Perk

Growing numbers of Mississippi farmers each year seek alternative farming and marketing options to help them cope with uncertain economic times.

Specialization has its place in agriculture, but increasingly, diversification seems to be providing that necessary edge when it comes to making a profit.

In addition to an ideal climate, the state possesses many natural resources which could contribute to a good alternative cash crop. There are also a growing number of markets catering to these types of crops.

In southwest Mississippi, some enterprising farmers are raising rabbits for Rabbitt Hill Rabbitry and Processing Plant in McComb. The plant processes 500-600 rabbits a week for sale to markets in the New Orleans area. More locally-grown rabbits are welcome.

Many Delta farmers have added or tuned exclusively to farm-raised catfish in their farming operations, but a number of ponds are also being built in south Mississippi.

Scotland Fisheries, which owns some 1,000 acres of land devoted to catfish production in the Delta, has purchased six catfish ponds in Hancock County just outside of Kiln. Plans are to expand the operation to encompass 150 acres with 20 ponds and one hatchery. The goal is to raise 20 million catfish fingerlings annually.

In the Meridian area, Paul Broadhead formed Southeastern Specialty Foods Corporation and last year began organizing muscadine growers. At that time, the firm was already producing and marketing limited quantities of muscadine juice, jams, jellies and preserves. Recently, the Broadhead firm opened a juice processing plant in Ellisville.

In the Poplarville area, blueberry growers market their berries each year through the Arkansas Blueberry Growers Association which sells the fruit to outlets across the United States.

Rabbits, catfish, muscadines and blueberries are just four of the many alternative crops which will be discussed at the Alternative Farming Opportunities Conference to be held at Gulf Coast Junior College in Perkinston on Jan. 22.

Sponsored by the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, the state's oldest farm-help organization, the conference will bring together some of the best minds in state agriculture to explore alternative farming opportunities that will enhance farm profitability.

Other topics will include blackberries, ornamental horticulture, vegetables, Christmas trees, sheep, quail, crawfish, bait fish and fresh water shrimp.

Additional sessions will deal with marketing, cost of production and budgets, business plans to make a profit, and home-based businesses (cottage industries).

Registration fee is $5. Registration will be held at 8 a.m. the day of the conference which gets underway at 8:30 a.m. in Malone Hall.

Meat fat content proposed to change

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is proposing to allow meat processors to make lower fat hot dogs, bologna and other cooked sausage products, as long as labels on the products meet USDA rules for lean and lower fat claims.

The USDA is asking consumers to comment on the proposal by January 23, according to Barbara P. McLaurin, a food and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The proposal would allow processors to increase the amount of added water in cooked sausage products above the current 10 percent limit. As a result, processors would be able to reduce the fat content in products by replacing fat with added water.

The flavor and nutritional content of the products would remain comparable to other cooked sausages, according to Donald L. Houston, administrator of USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service.

"The proposal would allow the use of a 40 percent fat and added water combination in these products," McLaurin said. "The maximum fat content in the finished product would continue to be restricted to 30 percent."

The labels of cooked sausage products prepared under the proposed rules would have to comply with USDA's new labeling policy for lean and lower fat claims. In March, USDA restricted its definitions for fat claims that can be used on meat and poultry products, giving processors one year to change their labels.

Based on the labeling policy, the terms, "lite," "light," "leaner" and "lower fat" could be used on cooked sausage products if the products contain at least 26 percent less fat than similar products in the marketplace. When using these terms, processors must include a statement explaining the comparison on the product's label.

For example, the label for lower fat hot dogs might include "this product contains 20 percent fat, while USDA allows 30 percent fat in hot dogs."

The proposal was published in the November 24 Federal Register. Written comments regarding the proposal may be sent in duplicate by January 23 to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Food Safety and Inspection Service, Regulations Office, Attn: Linda Carey, Hearing Clerk, room 3168-S, Washington, D.

C. 20250.

Under the Federal Meat Inspection Act, USDA develops standards for meat and poultry products, ensures the safety, wholesomeness and accurate labeling of these products.

Community Services

Hire A Senior Citizen

Seniors Job Registry, Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court St., Bay St. Louis offers placement services to employees and employers.

The registry is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program funded by the Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The registry attempts to place seniors 55-years-old or older in hourly, daily, weekly or monthly positions, according to Jim Widmark, coordinator.

Quotables by CUEVAS

There will be a benefit Fish Fry Friday night from 5 to 8 p.m. for Clayton Thompson, candidate for Mississippi Department Commander.

The Fish Fry will be held at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139's home on Blue Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis.

Thompson, a longtime member of the Bay St. Louis American Legion, has held many local, district and state offices in the Legion.

Proceeds will go towards Thompson's traveling throughout the state during his campaign. Tickets are for a donation of $3 each.

We hope to see you at the fish fry.

Over the years we have noted the terrible treatment suffered by the magnolia trees planted alongside the Service Lane of US-90 from Beach Boulevard to DeMontluzin Street.

The number of magnolias are decreasing each year from being run over, stomped over, backed over, knocked over, bumped over, and even pulled up.

If you look closely at the survivors, you can see the bumps and lumps they have all taken.

A tree as beautiful as a magnolia, which is even designated as the State of Mississippi's tree, should not have to take such abuse.

It is wished the magnolia trees would be given at least a halfway chance to survive.

Tonight and next Thursday night at 7 p.m. there will be a public meeting at the School Board's Room at Bay Senior High.

The meeting will be to discuss the long-range plans of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Municipal Separate School District.

The meetings are for the school board to receive public input on long-range planning.

Legislative Update

By Ellen Ann Fentress

The Mississippi Legislature slowly shifted into main gear as it entered the second week of its annual session.

Also last week, another chapter unfolded in the historic revolt against the House Old Guard by 75 representatives as the House picked Rep. Cecil Simmons of Maben to share power with a weakened House Speaker Buddie Newman.

While committee work began on expected 1987 issues like a new state constitution and a highway building program last week, two floor votes took place: establishing a state holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King and the House speaker pro tem balloting.

Both the Senate and House voted for the state to honor the slain civil rights leader King on the third Monday of January, already a state holiday honoring the birthday of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee.

No member of either chamber opposed the bill, however Rep. Ed Buelow of Vicksburg initially voted himself against the measure, and then later reported himself as present.

In the House, representatives picked Simmons over Rep. Mike Nipper of Grenada 67-41 for the resurrected post of House speaker pro tem.

A revolt by a majority of House members in the first week of the session established a package of reforms to democratize the House's operation and lessen the powers of the House speaker.

One of the reforms was re-establishing the No. 2 post of House speaker pro tem to the chamber pecking order to diffuse the power of the speaker.

Last week the House picked its pro tem, a post once held by Newman but abolished in the 1970s. Representatives also elected members of the House Management Committee, which became elective in this month's coup instead of being composed of Newman appointees.

Simmons, 40, was the favorite of those who favored the House rules changes. He had served as rebel spokesman through much of 1986.

Nipper, who had supported the revolt, had closer ties to Newman and was supported in the pro tem contest by Newman loyalists and others.

Gov. Bill Allain gave the customary State of the State address to a joint House-Senate session last week as well, an event that some constitutional reform supporters had awaited before making a push to replace the Mississippi Constitution of 1890 with a new document.

In his 40-minute address, Allain urged legislators to let voters decide in a November referendum on whether they are willing to pay higher taxes to support highway construction and education. He also endorsed holding a November referendum on whether Mississippians want a constitutional convention.

The following day, the Senate Constitution Committee narrowly approved a statewide vote on a constitutional convention 5-4. The full Senate is expected to vote on the proposal this week.

On the highway front, legislators are faced with two proposed highway building programs. Allain is pushing a no-tax, $865 million, 450-mile highway construction plan while bills have been introduced in both the House and Senate calling for a 12-year $1.5 billion, 1,059-mile road plan.

The $1.5 billion plan would be financed by a 5-cent-per-gallon fuel tax.

Allain forces say the legislative highway plan has too long a time frame and warn that gasoline prices are expected to rise.

The governor's plan combines federal highway funds with bond issues. Legislative critics say Allain's plan so concentrates federal dollars on construction that nothing would be left for state highways not included in his plan.

Allain has not specified what roads would be part of his highway program.

The legislative plan funds work on segments of US-45, US-45-A, US-72, US-78, US-82, S-84, US-49, US-61, US-98, Mississippi 25 and Mississippi 63.

The legislative plan is awaiting a vote by the full Senate. On the House side, the proposal still must win approval by the Ways and Means Committee before it could be considered by the full House.

Allain's highway plan had yet to be introduced officially as a bill at the Capitol last week.

HOUSE BILLS

The major action in the House of Representatives this week was the election of a speaker pro tem. Nominated for the number two position in the lower chamber were Mike Nipper of Grenada, Tallahatchie and Yalobusha counties and Cecil Simmons of Oktibbeha County. Simmons was elected by a margin of 67 to 41 with 14 not voting.

*hillips, Nipper; Holston, Simmons.

House Bill 379 created a holiday in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King to be celebrated on the third Monday in January, concurrent with the state holiday honoring the birthday of Confederate General Robert E. Lee. It passed by a vote of 117 to 0.

Weekly Summary
from
Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

JACKSON— The fight over rule changes apparently has ended in the Mississippi House of Representatives and legislators were expected to shift most of their attention this week to a stack of bills awaiting scrutiny.

The election of a speaker pro tempore and a new house management committee were among last week's highlights.

Governor Bill Allain submitted his 1987 recommendations in a 40-minute address to a joint session of the Senate and House.

And committees continued to wrestle with a growing number of bills introduced since the session began Jan. 6.

Major floor action in the House last week included approval of a bill to designate the birthday of Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. as a state holiday on the third Monday in January. This is the same date already designated as a state holiday in honor of Gen. Robert E. Lee. An identical bill also was passed by the Senate.

Another bill approved by the House would make irreconcilable differences grounds for a contested divorce. At present, irreconcilable differences are grounds for divorce only when both parties agree and sign property, custody and support agreements.

Representative Cecil Simmons of Maben was elected to fill the newly created position of Speaker Pro Tem. His duties include presiding over the House in the absence of Speaker C. B. "Buddie" Newman and serving as chairman of the reconstituted House Management Committee.

The creation of the Speaker Pro Tem's position was among the key provisions in a package of House rule changes adopted at the close of the first week of the session. Simmons, a member of the House since 1972, was a leader in the movement to revise the rules.

Newman and Simmons both called for unity among House members following the Speaker Pro Tem's election.

Some of the rule changes already have gone into effect while others are to be implemented in 1988 if the incoming new Legislature is in agreement.

In addition to the speaker pro tem's election, new members were chosen last week to the House Management Committee which oversees administrative, business and personnel matters for the House.

Formerly, the management committee consisted of four members appointed by the speaker and the speaker served as its chairman.

Under the new rules, the committee is composed of 12 members including the speaker pro tempore as chairman, the speaker, and two lawmakers elected from each congressional district.

Key changes slated to take effect in 1988 include the election of the House Rules Committee; limiting the Speaker to not more than two terms; providing that appointments to the Appropriations and Ways and Means Committees will be based on seniority, with six members to come from each congressional district and three from the state at large; and a provision that no member serving as chairman or vice chairman of a standing committee shall hold a similar office on another committee.

In addition, a change was made in the time frame for withdrawing a bill from committee if the committee does not act on the bill.

The governor's recommendations received a mixed reaction in the House. Legislators concurred generally in some of his remarks but differed with him on other matters.

Virtually everyone agrees the Legislature must continue to keep close watch on state spending, but some have questioned the governor's statements that no additional taxes are needed this year to adequately deal with essential state needs.

The $1.5 billion highway bill was approved last week by the House Transportation Committee and was awaiting action at the start of the current week by the Ways and Means Committee.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON— When the U.S. Justice Department approved Mississippi's election reform law earlier this month, it marked the end of a glitch that has long dogged the state's election system: the late-entry independent candidate.

A state law dating back to the early 1900s had permitted independent candidates to qualify for the general election long after the party primaries were over.

Nobody paid any attention to it for about six decades because the Democratic primaries then were tantamount to election, and there was no such thing as a viable Republican party or a black politician who might want to run, with any prayer of winning.

But when blacks got the vote in the mid 1960s and started running for office, they couldn't get into the Democratic Party, so they started running as independents.

Then, it was soon discovered that the emerging Republican Party might be making a political device of luring a black independent into the general election to drain off the black vote the Democratic candidate would be expected to get.

Of course, in a general election, it is a high-man-wins with no runoff and a three-way split of the vote. It increased the independent's chances of winning and was of course attractive to some blacks. But the three-way split also helped the Republicans.

Republican Senator Thad Cochran's political career, for instance, has been greatly aided by the black independent phenomenon in Mississippi, something that didn't occur in any other Southern state.

Cochran first won a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives in a classic race in November, 1972 when a late-entry black independent candidate took a big chunk of black votes from State Sen. Ellis Bodron, Cochran's Democratic opponent, and Cochran got a bare plurality.

Again, in November, 1978, when Cochran won the Senate seat given up by longtime Democratic Sen. James O. Eastland, it was another three-way split which boosted Cochran's chances.

In that race, Charles Evers, the well-known black civil rights and political figure, who jumped in the race as an independent candidate, polled over 133,000 votes. Many observers believe that caused the defeat of Democrat Maurice Dantoin, and assured Cochran's election.

It must be pointed out, however, that Cochran pulled 45 percent of the total vote in the Senate race, and, because he had good black appeal he may have won without Evers' presence in the race.

On three occasions over the past decade and a half, Mississippi has sought unsuccessfully to get the Justice Department to let it change the independent candidate law to require independents to qualify at the same time candidates for the party primaries must qualify. But because of black opposition, mostly from Evers' forces, who contended it would take away an advantage for blacks to wage a short, less expensive campaign, Justice declined to approve it.

This time, when the state went to the Justice Department for approval of the election law change, it was armed with research which proved that the independent candidate route is no longer being used by most blacks, and in several cases had resulted in defeat of black party nominees.

Secretary of State Dick Mulpus commissioned a study done by Brian Martin, formerly on the faculty at University of Southern Mississippi on the history of independent candidates during the 1982-86 period.

Less than one-third of all the candidates during that period, the study showed, were blacks, and in only one instance had a black independent defeated a white party nominee who previously had a black primary opponent. In seven cases where black independents defeated white nominees, the whites faced no blacks in the primary.

Significantly, the Martin study showed that two white independent candidates defeated blacks who had been nominated in primaries over white opponents.

The most noteworthy case was in the election of a white superintendent of education in Oktibbeha County. There a black Democratic nominee had unseated the incumbent white superintendent in the party primary, but then was defeated by a white independent who later qualified in the general election.

Martin concluded that the late-qualifying date for independents serves to inhibit the growth of a legitimate two-party system in Mississippi, giving a free ride to off-the-wall candidates to bypass the primary system.

Approval of the common qualifying deadline for all candidates, both party and independents, could revive hopes of Mississippi getting approval of the "open primary" election system that is now used in Louisiana.

The open primary, some validly contend, would cut down on the cost of running for office in a poor state such as Mississippi, making it possible for more people to run.

PASSING IN REVIEW—Immediately following launch at Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton in Pascagoula, the new Aegis cruiser San Jacinto (CG 56) was towed to her outfitting pier. Wendy Lee Gramm, wife of Texas Senator Phil Gramm, will serve as ship's sponsor during noon christening ceremonies at Ingalls on Saturday. Senator Gramm will be principal speaker for the occasion. CG 56 is the ninth cruiser to be built by Ingalls, and is named to commemorate the battle which secured Texas' independence from Mexico. Equipped with the Aegis Combat System and a new missile Vertical Launching System (VLS), San Jacinto is designed to counter all current and projected threats to the Navy's battle forces. ## Loose interpretation of 'federal land' could result in paving Texas Flat Board Attorney Gerald Gex and Board Engineer Lawrence Seal are researching legalities and availabilities of federal money for the long-overdue project.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors is continuing its efforts to secure federal funding for the paving of Texas Flat Road between McLeod Park and NSTL.

The road, which runs parallel to and about two miles north of Interstate 10, begins at Mississippi 603 and ends at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant. Most of the right of way lies in the buffer zone of the National Space Technology Laboratories.

Last year, District 4 Supervisor Sam J. Perniciaro Sr. paved about three miles of Texas Flat from 603 to McLeod Park, but the remaining 10 miles is a gravel road that is almost impassable in wet weather.

In 1985, U.S. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., got the Senate Armed Services Committee to agree that Texas Flat was a defense access road for the ammo plant and NSTL and funding was to be included in the U.S. Department of Defense's 1987 fiscal year budget, according to Stennis aide Steve Grafton.

Grafton said in a telephone interview last week that the Defense Department failed to include the money in the 1987 budget, but that Stennis will attempt to have the money put in the 1988 budget.

Meanwhile Seal told the supervisors that a possible source of financing the road is public lands highway funds administered by the Federal Highway Administration.

"We would want to do the 13.1 miles from Highway 603 to the plant," Seal said. "Most of this is in the buffer zone, and the question here is 'What is federal land?' The federal government bought some land in the buffer zone and it has perpetual easements from owners in the rest."

The buffer zone is the property surrounding NSTL. Residents were moved from the land when NSTL was created. Today, owners may farm, hunt or raise cattle on their land, but federal regulations prohibit any homes in the zone.

For a road to qualify under the Public Lands Highway Funds program, it must be bounded on each side by federal lands, according to the grant guidelines.

When asked which agency could decide whether the buffer zone is federal property, Seal suggested "start with your lawyer."

Board attorney Gerald C. Gex agreed to research the law and get an interpretation of the NSTL buffer zone's status.

Jim Odom named new jail warden

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy James L. Odom will be warden for the county's new jail expected to be open in late February.

Odom's appointment was reported last week by Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

"This will be the first time in the history of the county that we will have a jail warden, but we feel the size of the new jail warrants appointment and believe he will do a real good job," Peterson said.

Odom is certified by the National Association of Sheriffs and the National Association of Correctional Institutions.

"Odom said Wednesday his primary goal will be to operate the jail in a manner that it can become self-sufficient and not cost the taxpayers for daily operations."

"We will working to be self-sufficient within two years," he added.

According to Odom, fees for housing federal and state prisoners will aid in the goal for a self-sufficient jail.

Fees for housing 10 federal prisoners at the current rate of $46 per day would net $165,000 a year, he said.

Odom also said he hopes to get a county farm established so most of the food needed at the jail can be produced by the prisoners.

"This will be a big cut in expenses," he explained.

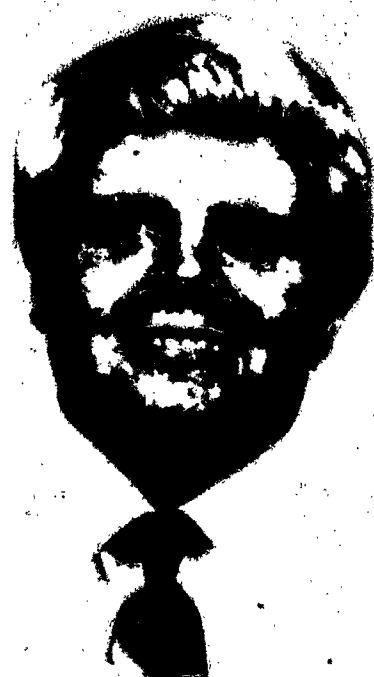

In Odom's position as warden, he will be in charge of administration of the jail and will oversee a staff of several jailors.

He has completed National Sheriff's Association Correctional Officers training courses and several related courses at Jeff Davis Junior College in Gulfport.

Odom also worked in the Harrison County Jail with correctional officers prior to being selected for this position.

He is currently assisting with a training session for a group of correctional officers which he will oversee at the Hancock County Jail.

Odom has worked with two years with the Hancock Sheriff's Office and seven years with the Picayune Police Department and Pearl River Sheriff's Office.

County Agent's Notes

By Lee Taylor

PRUNING TIME

January and February are the best times of the year to prune most plants. Practically all plants, except flowering shrubs, benefit from pruning.

Winter is the best time to prune plants because cold weather makes most plants go dormant. Pruning then produces the least shock.

Without pruning, most outdoor plants will grow too tall or wide. Many plants have a certain amount of growth that dies each year, and this can most easily be removed by pruning.

Pruning also improves the quality of flowers and fruit. A rose, for example, is perhaps the leading home plant that benefits from pruning. Pruning also can help train plants in a certain way, such as a lattice against a wall.

Even with relatively young plants, it's a good idea to remove a small amount of growth annually. A delay of several years requires that plants be pruned much too severely, and later pruning may look like a butcher job.

Try to keep the plant's natural growth habits when pruning. Avoid giving a sheared or clipped appearance for every specimen in your yard. Most plants lose a great deal of their beauty if given a boxy, clipped look. Besides, you'll have to prune much more frequently if you clip all the plants.

You'll need a small pruning saw, hand shears and loppers. Our office has more details on pruning plants.

UNLEADED GAS

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has proposed to ban lead from gasoline as early as 1988. Before such a ban can take effect, EPA and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) must conduct a study to determine if farmers will be adversely affected. That study is now under way.

Lead in gasoline builds up on exhaust valve seats and prevents wear on the valves.

Engines built with hard steel valve seat inserts probably are not vulnerable, but engines built with softer cast iron valve seats might be damaged at high speeds when unleaded gasoline is used.

Although thousands of gasoline-powered trucks, tractors, combines and other farm equipment have steel valve seat inserts, many others were built with cast iron inserts.

And, many engine rebuilders routinely install the less-expensive cast iron valve seats regardless of the original type, unless the owner specifies otherwise.

It's too early to know what the EPA-USDA study will show. But as a precaution, farmers are advised to continue using leaded gasoline in engines designed to use it. Also, insist that hard steel valve seat inserts be installed any time the valves must be reworked in a gasoline engine.

If you have questions or need more information on how unleaded gasoline may affect your farm equipment, contact the Office of Energy, USDA, Room 144-E, Administration Building, Washington D.C. 20250, or call (202) 477-2095. Our Extension Engineering Department at (601) 325-3103 also can help.

Senator Gene Taylor named grand marshall of Diamondhead Parade

Gene Taylor, state senator for District 46, will serve as grand marshall for the Krewe of Diamondhead land parade on Saturday, Feb. 28, beginning at noon.

Taylor received a BA degree from Tulane University in political science, with additional graduate studies at the University of Southern Mississippi. He is a sales representative for Gulf Container Corporation.

Serving his first term in the legislature, Taylor is representing parts of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. He worked on many issues, including a strong ethic law for public officials; a center at NSTL which will provide 300 new high-tech jobs; and a pay raise for teachers.

Taylor has contributed his legislative pay raise to scholarships for high school seniors in his district, since he opposed the pay raise.

Taylor is a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Church; Rotary; U.S. Coast Guard Reserve; and the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to the former Margaret Gordon and they have two children, Sarah and Emily.

Sauer to coordinate Senior Job Registry

Gertrude Sauer of Waveland, former Community Action Agency employee at the Webb Center in Bay St. Louis, is the new coordinator of Hancock County Senior Job Registry.

She replaces Jim Widmark of Bay St. Louis who has accepted the post of quality control inspector in the eastern U.S. for Friendship Inns International headquartered in Bergen, N.J.

Widmark will maintain his Bay St. Louis residence.

The job registry, located in Russell Youth Court Building, 126 Court St., Bay St. Louis, is a free community service provided by National Council of Senior Citizens Senior Aides Program and funded by the U.S. Department of Labor through South Mississippi Planning and Development District.

The job registry, which operates between 8 a.m. and noon Monday through Friday, attempts to locate persons 55 years or older in suitable part-time positions through registration of both prospective employer and employee.

"Senior citizens have a vast amount of knowledge and years of experience to offer. They need to work to supplement their low fixed incomes and will accept positions by the hour, day, week or month," Sauer said.

"If you need a clerk-typist, bookkeeper, sitter, cook, painter, carpenter, maid, nurses aide, or any other qualified person, call the Seniors Job Registry at 467-7945," she added.

heard she was going to get me," Monique said.

"My mother told me to tell the principal but instead I got a knife."

"One day in the cafeteria Lisa came over where I was and started cursing. When she threw a cup of water in my face I jumped up and stabbed her and started fighting."

"Teacher broke up the fight and I was sent to the office. When the police came to arrest me they said Lisa had died."

"What I did ruined two lives. Lisa paid with her life and I paid with my freedom," Monique said.

Bennie began drinking at age 17. He has served 6 and a half years of two sentences totaling 50 years. He received a 20-year sentence for aggravated assault on a police officer and 30 years for the shooting death of his sister-in-law.

"When I first started drinking I never thought that drinking was wrong but look at me now, I'm in the penitentiary," Bennie said.

Project Aware began in 1979 as several penitentiary inmates formulated a plan to educate young people of Mississippi about the consequences of delinquent and criminal behavior and to involve adult inmates in a positive, constructive program to assist them in redirecting their life-style upon their release.

"Project Aware is a hard hitting weapon in the war against juvenile delinquency in general, and against alcohol and drug abuse in particular," according to Fred Hutto, project coordinator.

What makes Project Aware unique is the way it is presented with convicted felons telling their story about what led them to the penitentiary, he said.

"As juveniles, these inmates were alcohol or drug abusers. They are not proud of their life-style which led them to become convicted felons, but are willing to share their personal experiences in an effort to awaken young people who are traveling a similar road," Hutto said.

He said the group had given 186 presentations last year and will be on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

They will also appear on the Good Morning South Mississippi Show Friday at 10 a.m. on WLOX Channel 13.

KATY
MC GUIRE
CAIRE

This soupy weather calls for steaming bowls of hearty, filling soup, don't you think? I do, and that's why a huge pot of split pea soup is a simmer on the stove at this moment. I'm growing hungrier by the minute - in fact, I've already started on the French bread that's meant to accompany the soup!

Like so many of America's famous soups, split pea soup was born of necessity. In the long, cold winters and short growing season of Quebec and other parts of French Canada, North America's colonists survived on foods which could be dried or cured for the leaner times.

They called it "Habitant Pea Soup," and it's known as Potage St. Germain in France and on menus at French restaurants - to us it's just Split Pea Soup - and delicious in any language!

I always keep a variety of dried beans and peas on hand, and it's often a toss-up as to whether that last of the ham bone and its trimmings will go to the pot of red beans or to a peas and rice dish or to some sort of soup. I often divide up the trimmings, or use salt pork or ham hocks or whatever - after all, isn't it said that variety is the spice of life?

Here's the recipe for the split pea soup I've enjoyed since childhood, delicious:

- SPLIT PEA SOUP
- 1 lb. dry split peas (I soak them overnight, then drain; you may prefer to soak for one hour)
  - 1 ham bone, or ham hock, or a cup or so of chopped ham or salt pork
  - 3 quarts beef or chicken stock (or substitute water)
  - 4 ribs celery, finely chopped
  - 2 medium onions, chopped
  - 2 carrots, scraped and chopped
  - 1 tsp. thyme
  - 1 red pepper pod, finely chopped
  - 1 bay leaf (optional)
  - 3 Tbsp. parsley, finely chopped
- Cover the peas with the stock or water, add the ham bone or other meat, along with everything else but the parsley, which you are saving for garnishing the bowls of soup when serving.
- Bring to a boil, immediately cut the fire down, and simmer slowly for at least two or three hours, till peas are quite tender. At this point, if you're using a ham bone or ham hock, remove it and chop the meat into small pieces, then return the pieces to the pot.

I like to mash some of the peas against the sides of the pot, much as I do when cooking red beans, to make it all more creamy. At any rate, when you serve the soup, be sure to sprinkle parsley atop each serving. (Six to 8 servings.)

Some French cooks add a bit of sage, say a quarter teaspoonful, to the soup during the cooking time. Some use a half pound or less of diced salt pork (being careful in adding salt, as the pork is so salty).

sidered because of past public preference to this method instead of increased millage to pay off a large debt.

In 1979 when the city had to pay a $465,000 judgement, city residents had an overwhelming preference for the additional sales tax over increased property tax, Thriffley said.

"After the judgement was paid off the sales tax was removed but once again we are facing a large debt and must decide between additional sales tax or leaving the millage set at the increased rate," Thriffley said.

He emphasized the extra money was needed explicitly for the wastewater authority and school district and not for the city's operating budget which did not increase.

No decision has been made as of yet but city officials will have an excellent chance to lobby for the local and private bill at the Mississippi Municipal Association Winter Conference in Jackson next week, Thriffley said.

City officials will leave for the two-day conference Tuesday.

Also in the meeting City Clerk Edward Favre read a letter from the Downtown Merchants Association thanking city officials for assistance in getting the new Bay St. Louis city signs installed.

"Already as merchants we have noticed a marked increase in tourism which in turn has increased trade," according to Edward V. Jurkowski, association president.

In other business the council:

- Agreed to pay the monthly power bill for new lighting on Drinkwater Boulevard.
- Discussed proposed changes to the statutes which direct the mayor-council form of government.
- Held a brief executive session to discuss the status of litigation against the city.
- Discussed the need for action to be taken on an agreement on the relocation of a fence currently on city property and on clarifying ordinances to prevent roadside vendors from becoming permanent fixtures.

MPC breaks ground on new Pass Christian office

Mississippi Power Company has begun construction of a new local office in Pass Christian which will provide nearly three times as much space for customers as the present office.

The 2,400 square foot structure on the corner of Davis Avenue and Second Street will feature increased parking, a drive-up window and a meeting room for public use. The office is expected to open in June.

All customer transactions such as applications for connection and disconnection of electric service, bill payments and inquiries will be handled out of the new office.

"The new office will give us enough space to conduct business with customers in a convenient and comfortable manner," Bernard Jacob, MPC's Bay St. Louis/Pass Christian area supervisor said.

John Mykolyk of Pass Christian is the architect and Starks Construction of Biloxi is the contractor for the building.

CRIMESTOPPER RELEASE NO 87-2 MISSISSIPPI COAST CRIMESTOPPERS, INC. PHONE 1 - (800) 433-TIPS

Each week the Mississippi Coast Crimestoppers, Inc., publishes the Crime of the Week.

If you know any information about this crime, or events surrounding this crime, call the TIPS line at 1 - (800) 433-TIPS.

You do not have to give your name; and you might receive a reward of up to $1,000 if the suspect is apprehended and arranged as a result of your tip.

Remember that number: 1 - (800) 433-TIPS will help you and your friends by solving a crime that has the local police baffled.

THE CRIME OF THE WEEK

The place: A Package Store on Harrison Avenue, Biloxi.

The crime: Attempted Armed Robbery and Aggravated Assault.

It was 6:30 p.m. The store was quiet when the two black men, estimated to be from 5'8" to 6' tall entered the package store. One was calm as he entered and walked around the store; one appeared to be nervous. Both wore dark colored clothing and white high top tennis shoes.

The store attendant was stooping down behind the counter working when Suspect 1, armed with a small chrome colored revolver went behind the counter. Suspect 1 told the attendant to do as he was told and ordered the store employee to the rear of the store.

At this point the attendant kicked the armed intruder, knocking him to the floor. The attendant then headed for the door and was confronted by the second suspect, who was trying to get out the front door at the same time. They collided and both fell to the ground, with the suspect on top of the attendant.

Suspect 2 took advantage of his position and stabbed the attendant at the left side of his stomach, just below the ribcage. Both fled toward the south and disappeared.

Eye witnesses to this crime did not know the identity of the two suspects. The attendant was stabbed with a long wide blade knife.

First officer on the scene Patrolman Nickle Patano and Investigator O. E. "Buddy" Wills of the Biloxi Police Department would appreciate any help on helping to solve this case.

If you have any information on this or any other crime; and if you want to remain anonymous, call the TIP line at 1 - (800) 433-TIPS.

Essex Cable TV offers home shopping channel

The QVC cable shopping program is now available to all Essex Cable subscribers in the Waveland and Bay St. Louis area, as part of their basic cable service, according to Crystal Hoda, Manager.

She said QVC - which stands for Quality, Value, Convenience - would be carried on cable channel 24.

"With its emphasis on quality products offered at attractive discounts and its strong customer service orientation, we expect that this new service will truly appeal to many of our subscribers," the system official said.

QVC will present products in distinctive program segments - such as "What's New to Help You Look Your Best," "What's New to Beautify Your Home," "What's New to Make Life Easier," "What's New for Fun and Leisure," etc.

All Essex Cable TV subscribers will be able to participate in QVC's weekly $25,000 cash giveaway, which is based on simply matching up the latest 4-digit number drawn on the QVC program against the last four digits of the viewer's VISA, MasterCard or Discover card. At least ten times every day, a new 4-digit number is drawn at random, live on the QVC program. "This makes viewing QVC profitable as well as entertaining," said Hoda. She added that other attractive features of the QVC program include: fast shipment of orders and a 30-day, unconditional money-back guarantee.

Apart from its innovative programming, Hoda explained that: "QVC's proven management expertise in developing and operating large-scale direct marketing operations and its commitment to high performance standards were major factors in our decision to offer the QVC program to our subscribers."

She noted that QVC owns and directly manages its complete operation - from product selection through presentation to delivery - assuring the greatest efficiency and highest quality control possible.

According to QVC Network Chairman, Joseph Segel, QVC expects to be available to more than 8 million cable households in over 40 states by March 1987.

Headquartered in West Chester, PA (suburban Philadelphia), QVC is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System (Symbol: QVCN).

Coast Mothers' Center sponsoring discussion

The Gulfport branch of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Mothers' Center is sponsoring a lecture/discussion given by Jane Cook, a local child psychologist.

The lecture, titled "Do Mothers Have to Feel Guilty?" will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church in Gulfport Wednesday, Jan. 28 at 7 p.m., free and open to the public.

Ms. Cook, recently certified a family life educator by the National Council on Family Relations, is an expert in her field.

She holds a master's degree from the University of Southern Mississippi and a PhD from Florida State University.

Prep basketball honorees include scholastic whiz

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

Player of the Month selections from the high school basketball program in Hancock County include a student body president and a two-year starter with six years experience on district teams.

Named December Player of the Month at St. Stanislaus High School is Louis Schruft, president of both the SSC Student Body and National Honor Society.

Bay High's Boys Varsity selection for the December honor is Robert Hargett who was leading scorer for the month at Tigertown with 60 points.

Hargett has been participating in the Bay-Waveland School District Basketball Program since he was in the sixth grade.

Other December selections in the Player of the Month Program sponsored by Loicano's Health Club and Trophies by Ricky Geoffrey are Lora Moran of the Bay High Girls Team, Byron Washington of Hancock North Central and Natalie Ladner of HNC Girls Varsity.

Additional honors captured by Schruft include MVP in an All-Catholic Tournament at St. John in Gulfport and selection to an all-tournament team at d'Iberville.

He is co-captain of the Rockachaw cagers and maintains a 4.0 scholastic average.

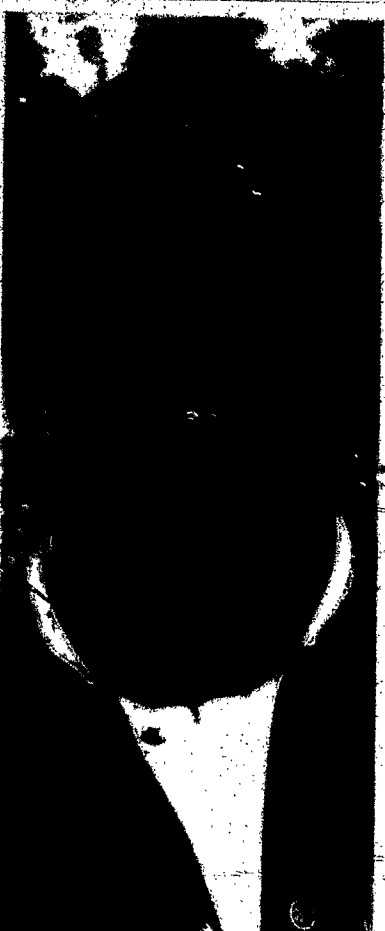

Schruft is averaging 12 points per game in the 1986-1987 season with a 37 percent field goal average and 75 percent free throw average.

Schruft also averages one steal six Tiger games this season.

He is the team's leading offensive rebounder with an average of six per game.

Playing forward and center, "Robert is a dedicated player and gives his all to a winning effort," per game, 3.2 assists and 6.2 rebounds.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Schruft of Pass Christian.

Hargett, a six-foot, 2.5-inch senior, is averaging 13.3 points per game, taking high scorer honors in three of said Coach Barney Necaise.

Moran, the Tigertette co-captain, is averaging 13.7 points per game with an 84.7 percent average from the free throw line.

She is credited with 2.7 steals per game.

Washington scored 23 points during the selection month, two rebounds, three steals and three assists.

Natalie Ladner averaged seven points in December, four rebounds, three steals and three assists per game.

River basketball broadcast on FM

POPLARVILLE—The Pearl River College basketball network is beginning its sixth year on the air.

According to Larry L. Stanford, PRC's director of public relations, radio stations WLUN-FM 95.3, Lumberton-Wiggins and WRMH-FM 106 in Piquette will air the remaining conference and playoff games this season.

The PRC network, which is produced by the school's public relations department, is the only junior college network in the state. "There are a couple of other junior colleges who have stations carrying their games," Stanford said. "However, none have the overall district coverage we have."

Stanford handles the play-by-play action, while Miller Hammill is the color commentator. The Hancock Bank is the network sponsor.

"We really appreciate the support of Hancock Bank and officials at WRMH and WLUN," Stanford said. "The coverage of our Wildcat games is vital to our overall athletic program."

All broadcasts begin at 7:30 p.m. following the Lady Wildcats contest. The remaining schedule is as follows:

- Jan. 22 - Gulf Coast Junior College, Home
- Jan. 28 - Hinds Junior College, Away
- Jan. 29 - East Central Junior College, Home
- Feb. 2 - Co-Lin Junior College, Away
- Feb. 5 - Utica Junior College, Away
- Feb. 10 - Jones Junior College, Home
- Feb. 12 - Gulf Coast Junior College, Away
- Feb. 16-20 South State Tournament
- Feb. 23-24 Over-All State Tournament
- Feb. 26-March 2 - Region XXIII Tournament

Bogue Chitto stocking almost complete

JACKSON—Restocking of a portion of the Bogue Chitto River south of Brookhaven should be completed by late spring or early summer when some 25,000 spotted bass are expected to be put into the stream, according to Wildlife Conservation officials in Jackson.

When the bass are stocked, this will bring the total value of fish stocked to almost $25,000 since an August 19 chemical discharge that killed many of the fish in the stream.

"This far we have stocked 4,500 flathead catfish fingerlings, over 2,000 pounds of channel catfish in the two-to-five-pound class, some 50,000 black crappie, 12,500 longear sunfish, about 1,000 pounds of flathead minnows, and some 25,000 redear," chief of freshwater fisheries Ron Garavelli of Jackson said.

Tiger soccer teams win

Both Varsity and Junior Varsity Soccer Teams from Bay High won matches against St. John's High Monday night in Gulfport.

The Varsity Tigers won 3-2. Scoring for Bay High were Scott Demboski and Mike Grisham, both assisted by Joel Duncan. Shane Kowalski scored on a penalty kick.

Stephen Barnes was credited with two saves and Kevin Edwards with one.

Other outstanding team members cited by Coach Kathy Edwards are Eddie Bourgeois, goalie; Jonathan

In Junior Varsity play, the goals were scored by Craig Adam with an assist from Greg Ladner, who also scored by the second goal assisted by Ted Bilbo.

The 2-1 victory gave the second for the Junior Varsity this season.

The Tigers' next scheduled games are Thursday night in Pascagoula against Our Lady of Victories Central High School.

Cheerleading competition slated at USM

HATTIESBURG—The 1987 Miss Elite Cheerleader competition and Cheerleading Championships will be held at the University of Southern Mississippi Sports Arena Saturday.

High school cheerleading squads are eligible to participate for $15 per member in the team competition. Each squad will have three minutes to perform one cheer, one sideline chant and a dance routine.

Squads will be judged on crowd communication, technique, choreography, originality and transition from each of the three required areas.

One or two seniors from each varsity team may compete to become the fourth Miss Elite Cheerleader. Each contestant will be asked to perform one cheer of her choice and will be interviewed.

Contestants will be judged on interviews and individual performances. Those participating in the competition, and who do not come with a squad, must pay a fee of $20.

For more information or to register for the competition, write the Elite Cheerleader Competition, 3509 Beasley Road, Gautier, Miss. 39533, or call the USM Division of Lifelong Learning at (601) 266-4201.

Duck stamp contest deadline near

JACKSON—Mississippi amateur and professional artists have only a few more weeks to get in their entry into this year's state waterfowl stamp-art contest sponsored by the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Artists must have their entry into the Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson by 5 p.m., Feb. 6.

The annual contest, now in its 11th year, is sponsored to select an art print to appear on the state waterfowl stamp issued by the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

For contest rules artists should write to State Waterfowl Stamp Contest, P.O. Box 451, Jackson, MS 39205, or call 961-5347.

WHO DAT?—It must be Biloxi Jets high scorer Ronnie Williams, judging from that 44 on his jersey. Williams, a six foot-eight inch forward from the University of Florida leads his teammates with a 17.3 points-per-game average. The Jets, with a victory over the Albany Patriots in Biloxi Wednesday night, could take a nine-game winning streak on the road to face Continental Basketball Association opponents Tampa Bay Thursday and Charleston (W.Va.) Gamers Friday and Saturday. The Jets currently hold the No. 1 position in the league's Eastern Division. (Photo by Bradley Bounds)

CEHS girls win, boys lose to Gulfport's Bible Baptist

The Coast Episcopal High School boys and girls basketball teams took on arch rival Bible Baptist Christian School of Gulfport Monday night at the Long Beach Junior High School Gym.

The girls won a tightly fought contest 24-19 while the boys dropped their tenth game of the year 47-22.

The boys played an excellent first half and were behind by only 18-12 at the half. A tough zone press in the second half was too much for the Raiders who only scored 3 points in the third quarter.

Twenty-three turnovers in the second half was the difference while Bible Baptist stole the ball and had easy lay-ups. Keith Ott ended the game with 9 points, Brandon Smith 7 points, Chris Riggs had 4, and Brett Robinson 2 points.

The Lady Raiders finally got revenge for two early season one-point losses to the Lady Crusaders. The Raider girls took advantage of their team height, going inside to Katherine Smith on numerous occasions.

The inside game netted Katherine Smith 10 points and her outstanding work on the boards opened up the Raider fast break offense for Leah Salebury, who ended the game with 7 points.

Kristen Catron scored 4 points, Sharon Orin 2 points and Margaret Murdock 1 point. Ball control and aggressive defense were also keys to victory for the Raiders. The final score in the game was 24-19.

The next game for the Raiders is against Liberty Christian Academy in Pensacola with the girls tipping off at 5:30 p.m. and the boys at 7 p.m. For directions to the game, call CEHS at 452-9442.

SCIENTIFIC-STATISTICAL DIVISION

Dr. Cornell M. Ladner, chief of BMR's Scientific-Statistical Division, served as moderator for two sessions of the BMR's Coastal and Marine Resources Workshop held in Biloxi on Nov. 20.

These two sessions were "Oil and Gas Management and Development Activities in Mississippi Territorial Marine Waters and Adjacent Federal Waters" and "Aquaculture in the Coastal Region of Mississippi—Technology, Entrepreneurs and Business Opportunities."

Both sessions provided the opportunity for discussion and exchange of ideas between session panel members and members of the audience.

Each panel was comprised of individuals having expertise or interest in the subject matter openly discussed in each session.

Jim Franks, a staff member in the division, served as one of the panel members for the oil and gas session. Both sessions were well attended, with the attendance at the aquaculture session being one of the highest among the various workshop sessions.

The staff of the Scientific-Statistical Division, along with other BMR staff members, recently met with personnel from the New Orleans and Houston offices of Chevron U.S.A., Inc.

Others in attendance at the meeting were from the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources and the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency.

The meeting represented a continuation of the dialogue between Chevron, the BMR and other appropriate Mississippi state agencies regarding Chevron's proposed plans to drill and deep exploratory well in the Mississippi Sound near Cat Island.

Chevron acquired a mineral lease to some 5,000 acres of coastal water-bottoms near Cat Island in 1982 and during the past year has begun to formulate plans pertaining to proposed drilling activities. The BMR, through its Scientific-Statistical Division, plays a key role regarding the environmental management aspects of oil and gas operations in state as well as federal marine waters.

Dr. Ladner and the Scientific-Statistical Division continue to provide advice to aquaculture entrepreneurs. For more information call 864-4602.

SALTWATER FISHERIES NEWS
Mississippi's on-again off-again oyster season has since the initial opening date in November resulted in some 17,000 sacks of oysters harvested from the St. Joseph's Point, Waveland, and St. Stanislaus Reefs in the western part of the Sound.

Jackson County reefs in the Bangs Lake, Bayou Cambest, and Rigolets area remain closed by State Department of Health edict. It is anticipated that these areas will be opened as soon as water quality test results indicate approval for shellfish harvesting.

The 1987 Guide to Mississippi Saltwater Fishing Regulations is currently being finalized and should be available for distribution by mid-January.

As of Dec. 1, saltwater sportsmen have been required to return red drum and spotted seatrout under 14 inches in length to the water.

The release of these small fish is expected to significantly improve the overall size and numbers of these fish in coming years. The new regulations do permit the keeping of up to five undersized fish per person per day.

Attendance at the fisheries session of last month's Marine Resources Workshop rated about the same as the aquaculture session. Panelists representing various sectors of the commercial and recreational fishing industries discussed critical issues in fisheries management.

It is expected that this forum will ultimately result in new regulations that will work advantageously to commercial and recreational fishermen while still maintaining the integrity of the state's valuable saltwater fisheries resources.

The massive red drum tagging effort being conducted jointly by the Bureau of Marine Resources and the National Marine Fisheries Service in cooperation with other agencies has been brought to a temporary halt. Inclement weather and the inability to locate schools of fish during mid-November caused the postponement. At that time, some 6,000 redfish had been tagged. The project is scheduled to resume early in 1987.

WETLANDS PERMITS

The Wetlands staff presented five permit requests and one after-the-fact permit request at the November meeting of the Commission on Wildlife Conservation.

The permit requests by Dupont for maintenance dredging of an existing channel by the Harrison County Board of Supervisors for beach renourishment; and by the Harrison County Wastewater Management District for filling a small canal in the marsh were issued.

The permit request by the Department of the Navy for support facilities at Singing River Island was held in abeyance pending proposed changes in the SMA Plan for the Port of Pascagoula and the after-the-fact permit request by Kremer Marine to keep in place rip-rap and rubble along their shoreline was denied and he was ordered to restore.

BMR WORKSHOP

The wetland staff participated in the agency-sponsored Marine Resources Workshop held at the Biloxi Hilton on Nov. 20. Joe Gill Jr. was the moderator for the panel discussion on Wetlands Management and Larry Lewis, Chris Snyder and Dianne Hunt participated in the panel discussion.

SLIDES CATALOGED

Chris Snyder of the Wetlands Division is presently cataloging over 5,000 slides taken by bureau personnel covering the Mississippi Coast over the past 12 years. The slides have been grouped according to subject and county and document some of the important events and changes to our coastline.

ROUND ISLAND TASK FORCE

Dianne Hunt attended the initial meeting of the Round Island Task Force. The task force was created to address problems associated with the management of Round Island which was 'dedicated' to the City of Pascagoula by the Bureau of Land Management.

COMPUTER COURSE

Kathleen Graham, Becky Hair and Tommy Quinn attended computer training sessions at the Department of Wildlife Conservation Jackson office Dec. 1-5. Training covered data entry, word processing and the UNIX operating system for the new Motorola Phase-Four 8000 computer system which BMR will be installing in the Long Beach office in January.

COASTAL DIVISION NEWS

The 16th annual meeting of the Coastal States Organization (CSO) convened in Bal Harbor (Miami) Fla., Dec. 11 and 12. The CSO is an organization with the purpose to establish a more effective role for the coastal states, commonwealths and territories in interstate and national marine and coastal affairs.

Jerry Mitchell, chief of BMR's Coastal Program Division, represented the state at the meeting. Major topics of interest were on coastal hazards management and existing development in high hazard coastal areas.

Of special interest was an address by Dr. Neil Frank, director, National Hurricane Center, and a tour of the hurricane center.

The Coastal Program Division moderated two panels at the recent Nov. 20, BMR Coastal workshop. One panel addressed the "Harrison County Sand Beach" with discussions centered on beach erosion, hurricane protection, and beach development.

Panelists included Bobby Eleuterius, Harrison County supervisor, Jeff Taylor, planner with the Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District and Wade Guice, Harrison County Civil Defense director.

The second panel addressed "Marinas and Marina Development" and included as a panelist Robert Seyferth of the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control speaking on water quality.

Loris Bridge, a marine developer addressed problems in permitting, Larry Manuel, Biloxi Port Commission, addressed various issues in marina operations and Dr. Robert Wales, USM, discussed the marina study recently developed for the bureau and the direction of the marina study update.

Questions on either of the two panels may be directed to the panelist or Jerry Mitchell, BMR's Coastal Program chief.

For those interested, the Conference on Gulf and South Atlantic Fisheries Law and Policy will be held March 18-20 at the Royal Sonesta Hotel in New Orleans, La. For information contact LSU Center for Wetland Resources.

Bassin' with the pros

by Trey Foerster

Develop your own rod and reel system

You wouldn't attempt to work on your car's engine with just one wrench alone, would you? I certainly hope not. Likewise, you shouldn't be going after every kind of fish under every imaginable condition with one rod and one reel.

Fishing tackle can be very costly. After an exploratory look at your local sports and tackle shop it isn't hard to imagine spending a whole week's paycheck on equipment.

First step for the bass enthusiast is to develop his or her own particular rod and reel system (rod, reel, line, lure weight). Start determining your primary use of the rod and reel. Each rod you own should be designed to do a certain set of functions, a lot like a mechanic's set of wrenches. You don't have one wrench that fits all the nuts you need to tighten. Likewise, you can't expect one rod and one reel to fish under a wide variety of conditions to its and your best advantage.

"The average guy," recommends Ken Cook, Evinrude Outboards Pro Team member, "needs about three rods and reels if he's a fairly serious fisherman. You need to buy a light action rod, reel and line that is capable of fishing with from 1/16-up to 1/4-ounce lures and lines testing from four to 10 pounds.

"You'll need a rod that's medium light," Cook continues, "and it can be a spin cast rod or a spinning rod. This fishing equipment weight is best suited for spinning or spin casting because of the light lures and light line you're going to use with it. A medium weight outfit is used over a wide range of conditions, so the line will test at between eight and 14 pounds, and we're going to throw lures from 1/8-up to 3/8-ounce with may be an occasional 1/2-ounce. The average bass fishing condition is best suited to a bait casting reel and rod and a medium action 1/2- or 6-foot rod.

"The third outfit is for fishing around a lot of cover," Cook explains, "something that will handle 12- to 25-pound test line and a heavy-duty bait casting reel that will cast lures from 1/4- to 3/4-ounce and a rod that allows you to pull big bass out of heavy cover. And therein lies the benefit of the bait casting reel; it's much more efficient in handling line under stress like when you take a big bass out of heavy cover. I highly recommend that bass fishermen have a medium-heavy bait casting rod that is from 5 1/2- to 7-foot long—depending on his preference."

Cook estimates that his rod and reel system will cover 95 percent of the fishing that anybody does. It's certainly a good system upon which you can establish the foundation for many; many years of bass fishing enjoyment.

SPORTS FROM THE PRESSBOX

NBA

After the Super Bowl is a memory, the NBA is given a chance to prove that it is the hottest league in sports and this week is no exception. On January 24, the L.A. Lakers and Dallas (CBS) will matchup in a replay of the great conference semifinals. And Boston and Philadelphia, one of the greatest rivalries in all of sports go head to head on Jan. 25 in Boston (CBS).

L.A. LAKERS vs. DALLAS

The L.A. Lakers have unjustifiably been labeled the Wimps of the West this year.

But matched up against the Mavs? Come on, are you for real? No contest here. Lakers +12

BOSTON vs. PHILA

The 76ers haven't had it to easy lately either. I think we all know who will win this historic matchup, but for Dr. J's sake, I hope they give 'em a good run for their money. Boston +4 © 1987, McNaught Synd.

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI

COUNTY OF HANCOCK
AGREEMENT TO DISSOLVE
 AGREEMENT made January 20, 1987, between JOSEPH S. BUCCOLA, of 217 Felicite Street, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi, and CHARLIE MCINTYRE NECAISE, 86463 Diamondhead Drive West, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi, herein referred to collectively as partners.

1. Partners are parties to a partnership known as Joseph S. Buccola, Ltd., engaged in the business of real estate, under an agreement dated December 5, 1985. The partnership is located at 300 Highway 90, Waveland, Mississippi.

In consideration of the mutual covenants partners hereby agree that the partnership shall be and is hereby dissolved 30 days from first publication of said notice to dissolve in the local newspaper.

Said partners have divided any and all assets equally and have no further assets to divide from the partnership and hereby release each other from any and all debts, obligations and liabilities of the partnership existing as of the date of this agreement, other than those jointly personally owned property and any attached mortgages thereto.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this agreement at Bay St. Louis, Miss., on the day and year first above written.

JOSEPH S. BUCCOLA
 GENERAL PARTNER
 CHARLIE MCINTYRE NECAISE

Tiger Band Boosters sponsor adult dance

The Tiger Pride Band Boosters will sponsor an adult dance Saturday, Jan. 24, at the Hancock County Fairgrounds from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Music of the '50s and '60s will be played by Speedo's and Rocket 88's. The dance will be BYOB with set-ups available.

During the intermission of the dance there will be an auction of homemade cakes.

Admission is $10 per couple. Advance tickets may be purchased at the Corner Market, Old Spanish Trail, and Car Parts, Highway 90. Couple and stag tickets may be purchased at the door.

Student journalists invited to Southern

HATTIESBURG—The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Journalism is inviting high school newspaper and yearbook advisers and staffs in south Mississippi, southwest Alabama and southeast Louisiana to the Hattiesburg campus to participate in a "High School Day" event Saturday, Feb. 28.

Activities scheduled for the day include contests, classes and critiques. Each staff should bring copies of their publications since 20-minute critique sessions will be scheduled with each staff.

Any staff member of a student-produced yearbook or newspaper in the designated three-state area is encouraged to attend.

Application forms must be returned by Feb. 1. For more information about the event or to obtain an application, call Dr. Dennis R. Jones at (601) 266-4258, or write: Department of Journalism, University of Southern Mississippi, Southern Station Box 5121, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5121.

UNO schedules AIDS panel

"Are You a Risk?" a panel discussion on AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and ARC (AIDS-Related Complex) will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. Tuesday Feb. 10, in room 125 of the University of New Orleans University Center.

The program, which is free and open to the public, is being sponsored by the UNO Student Physical Health Service.

Panelists for the program are epidemiologist Susan Hassign, MPH; Rose Mary DeLouise, president, Professional Insurance Agents of New Orleans, PIANO; and Maureen O'Connell, local attorney.

Each will discuss the impact of this disease from her particular expertise.

UNO Dean's List

Susan Daigle Flessala, a resident of Bay St. Louis, was named to the 1986 fall dean's list of the University of New Orleans College of Liberal Arts. In order to merit this honor a student must earn a 3.5 average on a 4.0 system.

Loyola University

Chris Merrifield of Bay St. Louis and Marion Quinlan of Waveland, students in the College of Arts and Sciences, were among 14 Loyola University students from Mississippi who have been named to the Fall 1986 Dean's List, earning grade point averages of 3.5 or higher.

Special bus planned for reunion

Alumni from the Gulf Coast area who will be traveling to the St. Stanislaus annual reunion Jan. 31 may ride a chartered bus to and from New Orleans.

Joey Monti has arranged the service between the SSC campus and the Jefferson-Orleans, site of the reunion.

The bus will return to Bay St. Louis after the reunion.

Reservations for riding the "Rack-a-Chaw Express" must be made by Friday, Jan. 23. Reservations may be made by calling Monti this week between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 467-4246 in Bay St. Louis.

This year's alumni reunion will be honoring the classes of 1947, 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1977.

However, the reunion is open to all St. Stanislaus alumni and their wives or dates. Further information regarding the reunion may be obtained by calling the alumni office at St. Stanislaus.

FOOD DRIVE—Nathan Middleton is among the North Bay Elementary School students who participated in a recent pre-holiday drive to collect food for needy families. The goods collected were distributed through the Bay St. Louis First Baptist Church.

HATTIESBURG—Late registration at William Carey College in Hattiesburg will continue through Tuesday, Jan. 27. Students interested in day classes should visit the office of admissions from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Registration for night courses will continue at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 22.

For more information, call 582-6103.

Deafness Foundation names Olin official executive director

NEW YORK—Monte H. Jacoby, a former executive of the Olin Corporation, has been named executive director of the Deafness Research Foundation.

"We are confident that Monte Jacoby, with his in-depth background in administration and fundraising, will be an important asset in moving the Deafness Research Foundation forward in providing research-funding to increase research for the hearing impaired," said Lawrence A. Meli, president.

The Deafness Research Foundation, founded in 1958, is the only national health organization entirely committed to directing public attention and support for basic and clinical research on the causes, treatment and prevention of deafness and hearing disabilities.

Jacoby, who is 65, spent his business career with the Olin Corporation. His last post was that of director of external public relations.

In that assignment Jacoby directed, developed and implemented corporate identity building advertising programs and education relations.

Working with the Olin Corporation Charitable Trust, he had been director of education and instituted programs, standards and procedures in educational support areas.

Jacoby also established Olin's corporate college relations program and had been employment manager at Olin's manufacturing operation in East Alton, Ill.

He is a past member of the board of trustees of Xavier University of Louisiana, New Orleans, and was

Q: As a parent, what advice can you give to help me help my children to resist drugs? It seems like peer pressure is worse on kids now than every before and this worries me! (S.K. Jackson, MS)

A: You are right about there being no other pressure more influential on kids than peer pressure. But, you can help your children to resist this kind of pressure to use drugs by supervising their activities, taking an active interest in their hobbies and problems, and by getting to know their friends.

Below is a list, from the booklet "Schools Without Drugs," of a few more tips for parents:

Work to maintain and improve family communications and listen to your children.

Being able to discuss drugs knowledgeably with your kids.

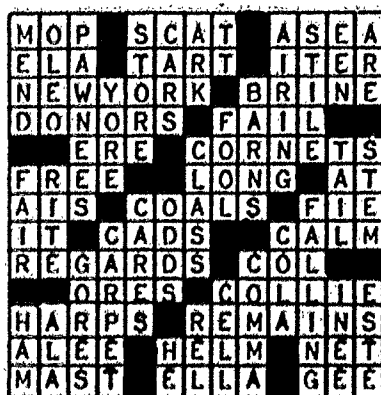

Being selective about your children's viewing of TV and movies that portray drug use as glamorous or exciting.

Q: What are the physical and psychological effects of "crack"?

A: The physical effects of crack are the same as cocaine, but much more intense attacking the body, brain, and nervous system at a faster speed. Crack reaches the brain within eight seconds after inhalation.

Its immediate effects are hoarseness, chronic sore throat, shortness of breath, bronchitis, and emphysema. Crack causes the blood vessels to constrict rapidly which can lead to heart attacks, convulsions, and strokes. This was the case with several of the recent celebrity deaths.

The psychological effects start out with a feeling of euphoria (excitement/stimulation) and as the drug wears off the user becomes depressed, irritable, and even paranoid.

He never knew what hit him.

You really loved him. He was a real one-man dog. Sure, he'd wander sometimes, but that was part of his masculine charm. You wouldn't think of having him altered. You thought it might change his personality.

You were wrong. Dead wrong. Most of the pets killed on our roads are unaltered males. When you alter your pet you don't change his masculine charm. You allow him to ignore the urge to dash across that busy street. With the urges in control, he'll be happy to stay home with you... Happy to be a real one-man dog.

He never knew what hit him.

You really loved him. He was a real one-man dog. Sure, he'd wander sometimes, but that was part of his masculine charm. You wouldn't think of having him altered. You thought it might change his personality.

You were wrong. Dead wrong. Most of the pets killed on our roads are unaltered males. When you alter your pet you don't change his masculine charm. You allow him to ignore the urge to dash across that busy street. With the urges in control, he'll be happy to stay home with you.... Happy to be a real one-man dog.

DON'T FRET AND FORGET!

MERCEDES SULLINGER

I've known otherwise intelligent women who fretted months over growing hair problems without ever taking the time to talk things over with me. Your hair problems are my business, I've made studies of the inside story of the hair shafts and its complicated layers. There's hardly a hair problem I haven't learned to solve. Isn't it time your hair met my care? Bring me your hair problems & watch them disappear.
